

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

The motion to reconsider the vote whereby the Bill concerning the compensation of Bank Commissioners was refused a third reading, was, at the request of Mr. Austin, of Boston, passed over.

matter in the Orders of the Day, viz. :—

Senate Bill, "In addition to an Act concerning Duties and Rights of Jurors," (Senate Doc. 100,) that the same ought not to pass, was proposed, the question being on the rejection of the motion, of Boston, inquired if the Previous Question should be in order at this time.

He stated that the House would remember, that a motion for the Previous Question was made. He had stated that he had not had an opportunity to examine the authorities upon the point, but he was informed, that it had been the usage of the House, for many years, to exclude all motions enumerated in the Rules of the House, from application to the Previous Question, for in the fifty-second Rule, under which the House is now acting. That the Chair was aware that this was not in accordance with the well-known law, that the Previous Question was applicable to nearly if not all debatable questions, and that if no objection was made, the motion would be put.

Objection having been made, the Chair said that while this doubt existed, he would rule, for the purposes of the present occasion, that the Previous Question could not be admitted at that stage of the question.

Since the adjournment, the Chair had examined the subject, and was of opinion that the Previous Question being in the nature of a call, like the call for the yeas and nays, the latter referring to the manner, the former to the time of taking a question, both being incidental and matters of form, could not properly be considered one of the motions which were excluded by usage, from application to the case arising under the fifty-second Rule. The motion would, therefore, be entertained, if made.

The Speaker added, he trusted the House would believe that in any rulings, or in the revision of any rulings he might be called upon to make, he would cherish only the single purpose of aiding the House in conducting business according to established usage, and in a manner to give the greatest promptness and efficiency to its legislative will.

e, of Boston, then called for the Previous which was ordered, and the Main Question put, it was decided in the negative, and the Bill returned to its second reading, in course.

In addition to several Acts, to secure a Department of Statistics and Statistical Information," was then taken up, the question being first on the amendment of the Bill of Brighton; then on the amendment of the Bill of Boston; and then on ordering to a third reading, the amendment offered by Mr. Warren, was adopted. The question then recurred on the amendment offered by Mr. Dyer, of Boston, to be amended; and after debate, the amendment was adopted, and the Bill was ordered to a third reading.

"To exempt certain articles from' attachment and execution," was passed to be engrossed, was lost.

Pursuant to assignment, the House proceeded to the consideration of the Bill, "To protect the Rights and Liberties of the People of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts."

On motion of Mr. Briggs, of Pittsfield, the whole subject was laid on the table.

A Message was received from his Excellency the Governor, by the Secretary of the Commonwealth, announcing that he had refused to sign the Bill to change the name of the Female Medical College and to reorganize the same. Also, returning the same to the House with his objections thereto.

Said Message was read, and is as follows, to wit:—

To the Speaker of the House of Representatives:

I return, herewith, to the House of Representatives, in which branch of the Legislature it originated, a Bill entitled, "An Act to change the name of the Female Medical Education Society to New England Female Medical College, and to reorganize the same."

It is not necessary to make any reference to the general designs and purposes of the Bill, as my objections are limited to that feature of it which contemplates making certain State officers, ex officiis, trustees of the Institution. Although this provision may not perhaps be deemed unconstitutional, in the strict sense of the term, yet if the principle involved in it becomes the policy of Massachusetts, it is obvious that onerous and extra constitutional duties will be placed upon a portion of the paid officers of the Commonwealth, which must necessarily deprive the State, to a considerable extent, of time and labor, which should properly be devoted to the performance of their respective duties.

This Bill provides that "The Lieutenant-Governor, the President of the Senate, and the Speaker of the House of Representatives, the Secretary of the Board of Education for the time being, shall be, ex officiis, members" of the Board of Trustees, elected from time to time, and in conjunction with them, "to make By-Laws, to appoint Professors who shall constitute a Medical Faculty, and to confer the usual degree of Doctor of Medicine."

It is a noteworthy fact that the original petition which accompanies the Bill, did not ask that any State officer should be, ex officio, a member of the Board of Trustees, and that a Bill was reported which passed the Senate, not containing this objectionable feature, but that in the House a recommitment took place and this provision was incorporated.

In addition to the objection to this Bill already intimated, it is apparent that it gives the Institution a reputation and influence, from its official connection with the State, that all other incorporated bodies for kindred or analogous purposes will much desire and be not slow to seek. Either this corporation will have special favor shown it, or a multitude of others will claim their share of the attention of our State officers to the infringement on time belonging to their regular duties.

Moreover, the interests of the corporation would become, to some extent, by the passage of this Act, identified with the Commonwealth, and an anomalous and hitherto unknown sanction given it, alike injurious to the dignity of the State and to the welfare of her people. For, notwithstanding this quasi endorsement of the State, it cannot be supposed that her officers can be familiarized, by a professional training, for the proper performance of duties appertaining to a board required to select professors and confer degrees.

For the reason then that this unusual and objectionable privilege is granted, though not asked for at the outset by the petitioners,—that either it is a special privilege, given here and refused elsewhere, or if hereafter extended to similar claimants, it must occupy the time of the officers of the Commonwealth required for the performance of other duties,—that those officers cannot often be fitted by that purely professional training this trust peculiarly demands,—and that it compromises the dignity of the Commonwealth in making her, in any way or to any extent, a copartner in private enterprises of this nature, I withhold my approval from the Bill.

HENRY J. GARDNER.

COUNCIL CHAMBER, BOSTON, May 8, 1856.

Conformably to the provisions of the Constitution in such cases, the question was put to the House, "Shall this Bill become a law, the objections of the Governor to the contrary, notwithstanding?" and the Roll having been called, it appeared that there were one hundred and ten Yeas, and one hundred and fifty-nine Nays; and two-thirds of the members present and voting thereon, not having voted in favor thereof, the Bill was lost.

Resolved, That the thanks of this House be, and they are hereby tendered, to the Hon. CHARLES A. PHELPS, for the able, impartial and courteous manner in which he has presided over our deliberations, and we hereby extend to him our cordial wishes for his future happiness and welfare.

To which the Speaker replied as follows:—

Gentlemen of the House of Representatives :—

I have no words with which to express to you my gratitude. Having never presided over any deliberative assembly until your partiality called me to this position, I stood here the first hour of the session filled with solicitude lest I should fail to deserve your approbation. I stand here at its last hour, oppressed with a sense of obligation for your unnumbered favors.

Those official duties in whose performance embarrassment and difficulty might have been anticipated, you have rendered congenial and pleasant.

Our labors, gentlemen, are drawing to a close. It has been said that no word ever spoken ceases to vibrate in the ever widening currents of sound. Certainly no word recorded here can cease to affect for long years, the Commonwealth in whose service we have labored. You have not given one grace or beauty, or added one stone to the temple of justice and human rights, which will not endure long after we all shall have passed away. I remember, therefore, with pride and gratulation, that worthy aims and noble motives have guided your deliberations and controlled your actions. That though exciting questions have been discussed upon which widely different views were entertained, the debates of this body, without a single exception, have been conducted with manliness, dignity and decorum.

You will allow me to bear testimony, and I have pleasure in doing so, to the industry, ability and fidelity of the officers of the House—the Clerk and his assistants, the venerable Sergeant-at-Arms, the Pages and Messengers. You will agree with me that they, one and all, have performed their various duties in the most acceptable manner.

Death has not failed to admonish us “What shadows we are, and what shadows we pursue.” One who sat with us, at the beginning of the session, in the full vigor of manhood, is to-day absent. His seat is vacant, his lips are mute, he has passed on to the land of silence.

Soon we shall grasp the parting hand and speak the parting word. With you I return to the pursuits of private life. In all human probability we shall never all meet again, but I assure you, gentlemen, that the friendships here formed, and the many favors I have received at your hands, new every morning and fresh every evening, will be to me the sweetest memories I shall take into the vale of years. I can never see you, never hear your names, without a thrill of emotion! I am not aware that I have given cause of offence to any single gentleman of this body, but if, in moments of haste, or amid the pressure of business, I have spoken a word unadvisedly to any one, I here and now crave his forgiveness. With my last words I invoke upon you and yours the choicest of Heaven's blessings. Permit me once more to repeat the expression of my gratitude, and again to tender you my warmest thanks.

Mr. Thayer, of Boston, introduced the following Resolve, which was unanimously adopted:—

Resolved, That the faithful and courteous manner in which the Clerk and Assistant-Clerks of the House have discharged their respective duties, deserves, and hereby receives, our warmest thanks.

Ordered, in concurrence, That Messrs. Mills and D. Warren, on the part of the Senate, and

Messrs. Temple, of Framingham,
Thurston, of Lancaster,
Taft, of Worcester,
Lamb, of Greenfield, and Austin, of Boston,

on the part of the House, be a committee to wait on the Governor and inform him that the two branches have passed on all the public business necessary to be acted on, and request him, with advice of Council, to prorogue them to the Tuesday next preceding the first Wednesday of January next. And the committee, subsequently, through their chairman, reported that they had attended to the duty assigned them, and that his Excellency was pleased to say that he would communicate with the two branches, through the Secretary of the Commonwealth, in compliance with the request of the Legislature, as soon as practicable.

And, soon after, the Secretary of the Commonwealth came in with a Message from the Governor, informing the House that his Excellency had officially approved three hundred and eighty Acts, and one hundred and three Resolves, and that he had withheld his signature from one Act, and that it was his Excellency's pleasure, by and with the consent of the Council, and at the request of the two branches, to prorogue them to the Tuesday next preceding the first Wednesday in January next.

And at seven minutes before five o'clock, P. M., the General Court was accordingly prorogued.
